Objectives of Sharī'ah:

1. Religion.
2. Protection of Life.
3. Intellect or mind
4. Honor.
5. Money or property
Each principle has three levels

- The essential (ḍarūr)
- The complimentary (ḥāǧ)
- Ameliorating (taḥṣīnī)

All five objectives have two levels

- Public benefit
- Private benefit
Six level of every objective:

1. Ḍarūr public-benefit religion.
2. Ḍarūr private-benefit religion.
3. Ḥāj public-benefit religion.
4. Ḥāj private-benefit religion.
5. Taḥṣīn public-benefit religion.
6. Taḥṣīn private-benefit religion.

‘Īzz ad-Din ‘Abd as-Salam’s (d. 660H)
"Rules Provisions in the Interests of the Creatures"
(Qawā’id al-Aḥkam fi Maṣāḥih al-’Anām)
“ward off evil takes precedence over bringing benefits”
1. When two harms or dangers are in place, a bigger harm or danger should be avoided by opting for an act carrying the smaller risk of danger.
2. Matters should be judged by their objectives.
3. Everything is pure except those items which are clearly proven to be impure.
4. Everything related to human benefit is permissible, and vice versa.
5. Permissibility and guaranty (insurance) can’t be gathered.
6. Preserving something that already exists has more priority than something that does not yet exist.
7. A greater harm is eliminated by means of a lesser harm.
8. Necessity makes the unlawful lawful.

9. Necessity is measured in accordance with its true proportions.
10. What’s legally considered is the common not the uncommon.
11. Every action that causes a harm or evil, or prevents a benefit or good is impermissible.
12. Every unawareness or ignorance that can be avoided can’t be an excuse/justification for the ignorant.
13. Every matter that exceeds the natural boundary, becomes the opposite.
14. “Don’t harm and don’t reciprocate harm”.
15. The hardship shall bring alleviation.
16. Certainty shall not be removed by doubt.
17. All harms should avoided as far as one can.
18. A harm should not be rid of by bringing in another harm.
19. A specific harm is tolerated in order to prevent a more general one.
20. Ensuring the human livelihood should come first before that of animals.
21. Profit follows responsibility.
22. Anything can cause a harm or evil is impermissible except if it includes a potential benefit.
23. “Whoever gives medical treatment, with no prior knowledge of medicine, is responsible for any harm done.”

Shari‘ah means for all Muslim in general and for physicians in particular:

The foundations that they should be aware of, and they are responsible for any action which violates these foundations.

Therefore, there are no exceptions, all physician share the responsibility of knowing the legal rules pertaining to their practice.

1. First, to believe: "that all in this world has only one able creator who performs all deeds willfully. He gives life and takes it, causes illness and cures. He is able and wise, the perpetrator of all actions, all intentional. Since the beginning of their creation, Allah has made known what is useful to them since their nature is a needful one. Thus (man has) the ability to recognize useful things which he may utilize, and harmful things which he must avoid."

2. Second, to believe "that he have credence in the great Allah with a firm affection, and is devoted to Him with all his reason, soul, and free will. This is because voluntary love is greater than that which is compulsory."

3. Third, to believe that Allah sent his messengers to mankind to teach them what is good since the mind alone is not sufficient."
• Train his soul and accustom it to these three good qualities, i.e. reason, respect, and self-restraint, to be virtuous and ethical.

• Be of noble aim to attain goodness and generosity. Otherwise, a base goal attains evil and lowliness.

• Not to hold an opinion violently. Distinguish good from bad with intelligence to keep his logic strong and his action praiseworthy.

• Retain caution in time of anger and restrain excessiveness in requital with politeness, and avoid obstinacy together with an unsociable disposition. Both of those indicate folly.

• Be bold and brave in time of necessity to ward of danger, preferring a noble death to a blameworthy continuance.

• Use patience, choose toil, and do not wish for rest and pastime.

• Be chaste, meek, and grave in order not to be silly, ridiculous, and foolish.

• Burn down desire with the flame of patience before pleasures bring him to an early grave.

• Embrace justice, control his instincts, and understand the creed and laws of his people and country and do not disagree with them or his demise will be near and quick.

• Be of kindness, compassion, and manly noble since these stem from the quality of freedom.

• Be kind toward strangers for these are the acts of polite freemen.

• Remove the evil people from among his friends and students so that what they do and say may not be attributed to him.

• Know that lawful poverty is more proper than illegal riches. Continued good character is better than precious property which is perishable.
"If you visit a patient, give him hope of long living, for though this does not prevent his death, yet it pleases him"

“The disease of bodies is a mercy, and the disease of hearts is a punishment”.
